Bread for Others

Adult: What does it mean for you right now to be bread for others as Jesus was?

Child: In what ways can Jesus' presence in the Eucharist help you do good things for others?

A table full of memories

A couple was downsizing from their five-bedroom house to a condominium. Their beautiful old mahogany table was too big for the condo's eating space. She understood, but hated the thought of giving up the table.

He assumed the responsibility for selling it. One evening he announced that he had found a buyer: a "very young and sweet" mom who was moving into her first home. His wife disliked her immediately - especially when her husband said he had lowered the price so the family could afford it. She wanted someone older to have her table, someone who would appreciate it.

"She probably doesn't know the difference between mahogany and plywood," she groused to her husband. "She's just an airhead looking for a table. Probably her check will bounce."

The young mother called to set up a time when she and her husband could pick up the table. A few days later the woman returned home from the grocery store to find the couple waiting for her with their pick-up truck. The woman was not happy.

The young woman was friendly and gracious as she introduced her husband, young daughter and brother-in-law. They insisted on helping her with her groceries. They were nice, she thought, yet she was finding it hard to be civil.

While her husband and his brother carefully prepared to move the table without scratching it, the woman proceeded to tell the table's new owner how valuable the table was and how fortunate she was to get it.

The young mom heard her out, then quietly told her how long they had been saving for a dining-room table. Not just any table, but something durable and beautiful that would be a gathering place for family and friends to create happy memories and that their daughter could later take to establish her own home. She said she had always dreamed of owning a table like this, and she would cherish it as the couple had.

As she talked, the woman realized that the younger woman could see right through her. She knew she was hurting, giving up something that had been a part of her life for many years. She was being kind and sensitive, overlooking her haughtiness and snobbery.

The older woman's attitude softened. Her hostility evaporated. Yes, the time had come for the table to move on to a new family's energy and activity. It was time for the table to be the source of new memories.

She watched as the husband and brother-in-law gently placed the table into the truck bed. They exchanged goodbyes and best wishes.

Then the older woman walked through her now empty dining room and into the kitchen to start dinner - and a new chapter in her and her husband's life.

[Adapted from "My Dining Room Table" by Cecelia Gavin O'Meara, in the book Legacies: A Gift for Generations, edited by Maury Liebovitz and Linda Solomon.]

Today we celebrate our parish's table of memories: the place where we come together at our most joyful celebrations and our most devastating moments to remember the love of God's Christ as he asked us to remember him: as "living bread," blessed, broken and shared. At this table, we become the community envisioned by Jesus: a community of giving, a community of consolation, a community of peace. This table is our connection not only to one another but to all who came before us and all who will come after us to this same table to break bread in the eternal memory of Jesus. On this Solemnity of the Body and Blood of the Lord, may our prayer be that our family tables - no matter how large or small, how simple or elegant - may be extensions of God's banquet table in the kingdom of heaven.

Hit the park safely this summer

A great way to beat summer boredom is to head out to the park and play. For many parents, parks provide the space and place for children to play with others and burn off some energy by running around and exploring. However, even in your own neighborhood parks, parents should be vigilant, and should prepare children with basic safety guidelines. Go over the posted rules of the playground with your children, and make sure they understand the boundaries of where they can and cannot play. To request a copy of the VIRTUS® article "Playground Safety Considerations," email jvienna@la-archdiocese.org or call (213) 637-7227.

Here at St. John Baptist De Salle

we strive to be a safe environment for our children. For this reason, please make sure that all children are accompanied by an adult when going to the rest room.

It is for their safety and protection.

TRUST IN JESUS

Today's feast celebrates another central mystery of our faith — the mystery of the Eucharist. Like the mystery of the Trinity, the real presence of the Body and Blood of Christ in the Eucharist can never be fully understood, but can only be believed. Just as the Israelites in the desert were invited to put their trust in God's word to them, we are invited to trust wholly in the word of Jesus. In today's Gospel Jesus promises to give us a share in his very own flesh and blood, and a share in eternal life besides. We are called to take him at his word and open our hearts to receive true nourishment and life from our participation in the Eucharist.

Why Do Catholics Do That

Why does the priest add water to the wine at Mass?

There are several reasons for this practice. Adding water to the wine represents the union of Jesus' humanity with his divinity. It also recalls Christ's Passion, when water and blood flowed from his side.

(John 19:33—35).
